3 Chinese Killed in Triple Jordanian Blasts . The 2005 Amman bombings were a series of coordinated bomb attacks on three hotels in Amman, Jordan on November 9, 2005. Al-Qaeda in Iraq & Abu Musab al-Zarqawi claimed responsibility for the attacks which killed 60 people and injured 115 others. The explosions, at the Grand Hyatt Hotel, the Radisson SAS Hotel, and the Days Inn, started at around 20:50 local time at the Grand Hyatt. The dead Chinese were members of a delegation from China's University of National Defense, which happened to stay at one of the three hotels. The dead were Sun Jingbo, Zhang Kangping and Pan Wei, who were at the age of 41, 42 and 44, respectively. The other members of the delegation have been transferred to one of Jordan's military bases under the escort of the Jordanian army. Jordan Army unit took active part in tracking Abu Musab al-Zarqawi
